For 25 years, Trench It Industries has been manufacturing trenching units for the New Zealand market and has recently begun exporting its product to global customers.

To stay in front of changing trends and industry requirements, its machinery is constantly updated. Customer needs, such as high uptime and low maintenance, are of high priority in the design process.

Matt Cooney, director of Trench It, says the biggest advantage of his trenchers, compared with the overseas trenchers, is the ease of use. "Because they are built or attached on tractors, most people are familiar with the operation of them", he says.

Trench It provides a wide variety of trenching equipment — tractor-mounted trenchers with backfill blade, three-point linkage trenchers, disc trenchers, and trenchers for mini excavators and loaders. Its latest trencher comes complete with a conveyor system and hopper, which is perfect for the turf industry.

Trench It is also the distributor for Ballentine Inc trenching product, a respected leader in replacement wear parts for trenching equipment, supplying a large variety of replacement chains, teeth, sprockets, bearings and accessories for most makes and models of trenchers.

The business prides itself on the knowledge and service provided by its people, with all trenching machines developed, repaired, and maintained in the company's Tauranga headquarters/workshop.

Trench It is the only company in New Zealand manufacturing trenching machines and attachments and welcomes the opportunity to design and manufacture variations of its standard products or discuss any other special trenching machines.

The primary markets of Trench It include the hire industry, civil engineering, golf and turf sector, and agricultural and horticultural contractors. A new distribution contract in the USA and a display at one of the biggest turf shows in USA has the company excited by the new business prospects.

To keep up with the demand, Trench It expanded into new premises in 2010. Throughout its existence, the business has worked to build an excellent reputation for the quality of its machines, the quick and reliable supply of spares, and unequalled service to its many customers. ■
